Enter the world of Edward Curtis: A man who would photograph the native peoples of North America, and the demons he would face as he traveled to North End of the World to film In The Land of the War Canoes, with the help of the Kwakiutl Indians. This would be his most important work, and the journey that would take him to the darkest corners of mankind, as he faced the task of recording this vanishing race. There, with the help of his best friend George Hunt, and his daughter Beth Curtis - he would learn of the Cannibal at The End Of The World, and that perhaps the greatest thing he would come to fear, would be himself.
