As a practical matter, it is likely that Title 39 is used more often, by more practicing attorneys and sitting judges than any other Code among the New Jersey Statutes Annotated. This is because the included statutes touch upon an enormously wide variety of legal disciplines, ranging from criminal law and all manner of traffic enforcement to insurance law and personal injury practice. The editorial selections related to the annotations in this volume take this into consideration and are intended to provide the maximum amount of relevant, useful and accurate information to the broadest spectrum of New Jersey legal professionals.
