A Florist's Walk Down Magnolia Lane: An Augusta Story Margaret Brown

Every year hundreds of millions of excited television fans watch as a new Masters Champion dons the coveted Green Jacket. This historic event, always taking place in Butler Cabin, has, for over a quarter of a century, been captured on a set designed for CBS by Margaret Brown. The azaleas on the mantel, the roses and greenery, are arranged in an understated yet elegant way to convey beauty, excitement and dignity. This visually appealing set only hints at the hundreds of floral arrangements that fill the historic clubhouse, the trophy room, the cabins, balconies, and other venues that make the Augusta National and Masters so special. In this book Margaret will take you inside to show you how the history of the club and the unique personalities of the people, great and small, who created and continue to serve it, have motivated her to produce the stunning floral displays that have helped define the Augusta National and the Masters.
